BIOGRAPHY

I completed my PhD in Political Science and International Relations at Istanbul University in 2024, with a thesis on Ottoman political advice literature. Since then, I have been an assistant professor in the Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Istanbul Nişantaşı University. My current research focuses on modern Turkish political thought, especially the 1950s and 1960s, with an emphasis on constitution-making processes, debates over legitimacy, and political-ideological contestations.
